

ASTRONICS CORPORATION

CONDUCT AND ETHICS

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

I. Purpose

This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (this “Code”) provides a general statement of the Company’s expectations regarding the ethical standards that each director, officer and employee should adhere to while acting on behalf of the Company. Each director, officer and employee is expected to read and become familiar with the ethical standards described in this Code and may be required, from time to time, to affirm his or her agreement to adhere to such standards.

Through this Code, we endorse the following principles:

- honest and ethical conduct, including the ethical handling of actual or apparent conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationships;
- full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure in the Company’s annual and quarterly reports and in other public communications and filings of the Company;
- compliance with applicable governmental laws, rules and regulations; and
- accountability by all of our directors, officers and employees for adherence to this Code.

This Code outlines the broad principles of legal and ethical business conduct embraced by our Company. It is not a complete list of legal or ethical questions a director, officer or employee might face in the course of business, and therefore this Code must be applied using common sense and good judgment. Compliance with the spirit as well as the letter of this Code is very important to us.

II. Administration

The Company’s Board of Directors is responsible for setting the standards of business conduct contained in this Code and updating these standards as it deems appropriate to reflect changes in the legal and regulatory framework applicable to the Company, the business practices within the Company’s industry, the Company’s own business practices, and the prevailing ethical standards of the communities in which the Company operates. While the Company’s Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer will oversee the procedures designed to implement this Code to ensure that they are operating effectively, it is the individual responsibility of each director, officer and employee of the Company to comply with this Code. Those who violate this Code will be subject to disciplinary action.

III. Compliance with Laws, Rules and Regulations

Obeying the law, both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation on which the Company's ethical standards are built. All directors, officers and employees must respect and obey the laws and governmental rules and regulations of the states, cities and local communities in which we operate. Although we do not expect that all directors, officers and employees will know and understand the details of all of these applicable laws and regulations, we do expect that everyone will know enough to determine when to seek advice from supervisors, managers or other appropriate personnel.

IV. Conflicts of Interest; Corporate Opportunities

The Company requires that its directors, officers and employees, as well as its other agents and representatives, avoid any activity which creates or gives the appearance of a conflict of interest between their personal interests and the Company's interests. A conflict of interest generally exists when a person has a direct or indirect personal interest in a transaction or situation that affects or appears to affect his or her judgment and/or divides his or her loyalties between two or more competing interests. A conflict can arise when someone takes action or has an interest that makes it difficult to perform his or her duties on behalf of the Company, objectively and effectively. In particular, no director, officer or employee shall:

- be a consultant to, or a director, officer or employee of, or otherwise operate an outside business:
 - that markets products or services in competition with the Company's current or potential products and services;
 - that supplies products or services to the Company; or
 - that purchases products or services from the Company;
- have any financial interest, including stock ownership, in any such outside business that might create or give the appearance of a conflict of interest;
- seek or accept any personal loan or services from any such outside business, except from financial institutions or service providers offering similar loans or services to third parties under similar terms in the ordinary course of their respective businesses;

- be a consultant to, or a director, officer or employee of, or otherwise operate an outside business if the demands of the outside business would interfere with the director's, officer's or employee's responsibilities with the Company;
- accept any personal loan or guarantee of obligations from the Company, except to the extent such arrangements are legally permissible;
- conduct business on behalf of the Company with immediate family members, which include spouses, children, parents, siblings and persons sharing the same home whether or not legal relatives; or
- taking for themselves opportunities that are discovered through the use of the Company's property, information or position.

The appearance of a conflict of interest may exist if an immediate family member of a director, officer or employee of the Company is a consultant to, or a director, officer or employee of, or has a significant financial interest in, a competitor, supplier or customer of the Company, or otherwise does business with the Company.

Directors and officers shall notify the Chairman of the Company's Audit Committee and employees who are not directors or officers shall notify the Chief Financial Officer of the existence of any actual or potential conflict of interest.

V. Insider Trading

Directors, officers and employees are expected to fully comply with Federal and state securities laws with respect to the disclosure of "material" corporate information and with respect to "insider" trading in the Company's securities. These laws provide for substantial civil and criminal penalties for individuals who fail to comply. Information that reasonably can be expected to affect the market value of a company's stock or to influence an investor's decisions regarding securities transactions is considered "material." Such information may include financial and key business data; merger, acquisition or divestiture discussions; award or cancellation of a major contract; forecasts of future results; significant litigation; and/or gain or loss of a significant customer or supplier.

Insiders are prohibited from transacting in the Company's stock with knowledge of material information that has not been disclosed to the public. For purposes of these restrictions, an "insider" includes not only directors, officers and employees of the Company, but also anyone else with non-public material information about the Company. You may be deemed to have violated these laws even if you innocently pass on non-public information about the Company to a friend or family member who then acts on such information and buys or sells the Company's stock. To avoid inadvertent disclosure of non-public material information, directors, officers and employees should not discuss such information with or in the presence of any unauthorized persons, including family members and friends.

VI. Confidentiality; Protection and Proper Use of the Company's Assets

Directors, officers and employees shall maintain the confidentiality of all information entrusted to them by the Company or its suppliers, customers or other business partners, except when disclosure is authorized by the Company or legally required.

Confidential information includes (1) information marked "Confidential," "Private," "For Internal Use Only," or similar legends, (2) technical or scientific information relating to current and future products, services or research, (3) business or marketing plans or projections, (4) earnings and other internal financial data, (5) personnel information, (6) supply and customer lists and (7) other non-public information that, if disclosed, might be of use to the Company's competitors, or harmful to the Company or its suppliers, customers or other business partners. Confidential information also includes information that our customers and suppliers have entrusted to us.

To avoid inadvertent disclosure of confidential information, directors, officers and employees shall not discuss confidential information with or in the presence of any unauthorized persons, including family members and friends.

The obligation to preserve confidential information continues even after your employment or other relationship with the Company ends.

The Company is committed to promoting the values of honesty, integrity and fairness in the conduct of its business and sustaining a work environment that fosters mutual respect, openness and individual integrity. - solicit or accept from any person that does business with the Company, or offer to extend to any such person, with that person or go beyond common courtesies usually associated with accepted business practice;

- solicit or accept any fee, commission or other compensation for referring customers to third-party vendors; or
- otherwise take unfair advantage of the Company's customers or suppliers, or other third parties, through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information or any other unfair-dealing practice.

The Company strives to provide each of its employees with a safe and healthy workplace. Each employee has responsibility for maintaining a safe and healthy workplace for other employees by following health and safety rules and practices instituted by the Company and by reporting accidents, injuries and unsafe equipment, practices or conditions.

Violence and threatening behavior are not permitted. Employees should report to work in condition to perform their duties, free from the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol. The use of illegal drugs or alcohol in the workplace will not be tolerated.

The Company requires honest and accurate recording and reporting of information in order to make responsible business decisions.

Business records and communications often become public, and we should avoid exaggeration, derogatory remarks and other inappropriate statements about people and other companies. This applies to e-mail, internal memos and formal reports. Records should always be retained or destroyed in accordance with the Company's record retention policies.

Company policy mandates strict compliance with the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (the "FCPA"). Our employees, representatives and agents are required to comply with the anti-bribery and internal accounting control provisions of the FCPA and of our policy to ensure that no improper gifts, business courtesies or offers of anything of value are provided to foreign government officials. Our policy also generally prohibits offers of gifts or business courtesies to U.S. government personnel and requires compliance with the Anti-Kickback Act concerning contracting and subcontracting relationships under contracts with the U.S. government.

XII. Political Contributions

No Company assets, including employees' work time, use of the Company's facilities or equipment or direct monetary payment, may be contributed to any political candidate, party, political action committee or ballot measure without the permission of the Company's Board of Directors. This does not preclude individuals from participating in any political activities of their choice on an individual basis, with their own money and on their own time.
